

“Wraps and ponchos work well as alternatives to jackets while giving something more than a cardigan”

The new collections of autumn and winter fashion are starting to trickle into stores, bringing with them the reminder of a new season around the corner. As the days start to get a bit cooler, the trade-off comes in the form of cute accessories, new-season knits and even winter woolies with the potential to become much-used items. Then again, it still might be too warm for that ... ●

MAKE THE TRANSITION

DRESS UP

Go for dresses in heavier fabrics such as suede or leather – add a shirt or long-sleeved top underneath on cold days.

LIGHT LAYERS

Layers are key and light ones work well. There's some gorgeous longer-style cardigans around at the moment that are perfect for taking a summer dress into autumn.

BOOTS

We're getting closer to boots season (a universal perk of cool weather). Start with ankle boots now if you're keen to get your boots on ... wear them with a dress and light knit for a stylish, inter-seasonal outfit.

GO SLEEVELESS

Sleeveless high-neck knits might just prove the new sleeveless trench of last season. Sleeveless coats are proving popular too and a handy choice when it comes to layering options.

TRENDING COLOURS

Looking for colour inspiration? Pink-hued neutrals and all kinds of red (take your pick from burgundy to terracotta) join neutrals such as charcoal and caramel in new season palettes. For a more daring pop of colour, consider chartreuse. ●
